I wish I lived in a caravan,
With a horse to drive, like a pedlar man!
Where he comes from nobody knows,
Or where he goes to, but on he goes.
His caravan has windows too,
And a chimney of tin that the smoke comes through;
He has a wife, with a baby brown,
And they go riding from town to town.

“My father’s a farmer, sir,” she said.

Flew laughing away,

And vowed he would serve them,
The same the next day,
Lumpety, lumpety, lump!

Wrapped up in a five-pound note.

And sang to a small guitar,
“O lovely pussy! O pussy, my love!
What a lovely pussy you are, you are,
What a lovely pussy you are!”

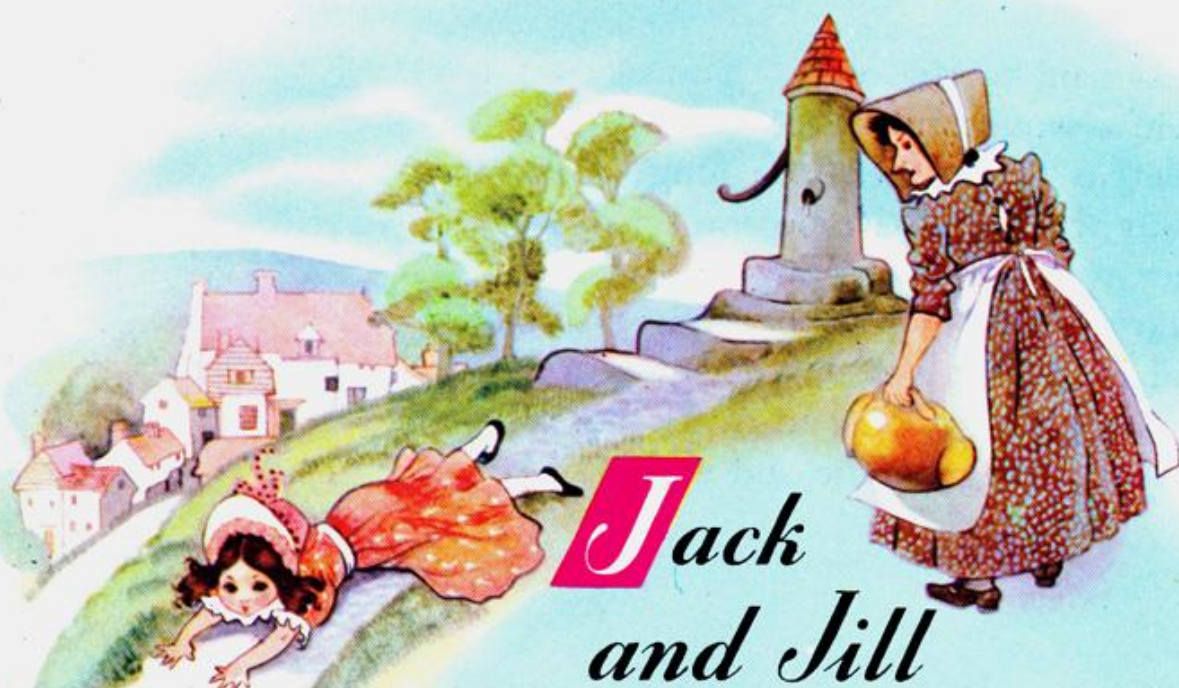

Pussy said to the owl, " You elegant fowl!
How wonderful sweet you sing!
O let us be married—too long we have tarried—
But what shall we do for a ring? "
They sailed away for a year and a day
To the land where the Bong-tree grows,
And there in a wood, a piggy-wig stood,
With a ring on the end of his nose, his nose,
With a ring on the end of his nose.

" Dear pig, are you willing to sell for one shilling
Your ring? " Said the piggy, " I will. "
So they took it away, and were married next day
By the turkey who lives on the hill.
They dined upon mince and slices of quince,
Which they ate with a runcible spoon;
And hand in hand on the edge of the sand
They danced by the light of the moon, the moon,
They danced by the light of the moon.

The Three Little Kittens

Three little kittens they lost their mittens,
And they began to cry,

“Oh! Mother dear,

Then you shall have no pie!”

The three little kittens they found their mittens,
And they began to cry,

The three little kittens put on their mittens,
And soon ate up the pie;

Our mittens we have soiled!”

Miaow, miaow, miaow, miaow.

And hung them up to dry;

“Oh! Mother dear,

Hush! hush!—miaow, miaow,
